

This Week We're Reading? DHS on Cybersecurity, OMB on Shared Services, the EU on Info Sharing, and Intro to NIEM

Posted by ISE Bloggers on Friday, December 16, 2011

The Department of Homeland Security released a cybersecurity strategy that outlines goals for protecting our nation's critical infrastructure. Read DHS's Blueprint here [1] or this article about it in Gov Computer News [2].

Check out US CIO Steven VanRoekel [3]'s blog post on the White House blog [4] about encouraging shared services across the government's IT enterprise. It was also covered heavily in the news on Government Computer News [5], Information Week [6], and Federal News Radio [7].

The European Union has conducted a study [8] that focuses on the legal and regulatory aspects of information sharing and cross-border collaboration of national/governmental computer emergency response teams in Europe.

Finally, if you haven't seen it yet, we encourage you to watch the NIEM Simplified Video! It's a great summary of this important component of the ISE!

So, what have you been reading this week?
